Course Objectives

- To challenge and empower students to use their own distinctive and individual voices to author a history of art;
- To hone students’ analytical and evaluative skills when writing histories of art based on primary documents and secondary sources;
- To introduce, demonstrate, and use traditional as well as new methods of art historical interpretation to create an intellectually provocative learning environment;
- To explore course material with students in a variety of ways, respecting students’ different learning styles.

Student Learning Outcomes

- Students will analyze the social experiences of artists, demonstrating how artists’ relationships with their patrons was a defining factor in the production of works of art.
- Students will demonstrate visual literacy and critical thinking skills by evaluating diverse scholarly perspectives when interpreting works of art.
- Students will investigate the different techniques utilized in the production of works of art through written analysis based on firsthand evaluation of art objects in local collections.

Frequently Asked Questions

May I turn in late work?

Yes. Late discussion posts may be turned in to the instructor by email. It is not possible to complete a weekly quiz after the portal has closed but each student will have their lowest quiz score erased and replaced with a perfect score of 10 points by the end of the quarter. (Exceptions are Quiz 1 and Quiz 2, since all students need to take these quizzes by the due dates to remain in the class.) Extra credit assignments must be submitted on or before the due date. Final exams must be submitted on or before the due date. No new work may be turned in after the last day of the quarter.

What if I need additional services, such as disability support?

“In accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, De Anza College is committed to providing equitable access to learning opportunities to students with documented disabilities (e.g. mental health, attentional, learning, chronic health, sensory, or physical issues). I invite you to meet with a Disabilities Support Services (DSS) counselor or Learning Disability (LD) Specialist to discuss any accommodations or specific learning needs you may have. If you have a disability-related need for reasonable accommodations or services in this course, you will need to provide me with a Test Accommodation Verification (TAV) form from the DSS office. Students are expected to give 5 (five) days-notice of the need for accommodations. Students with disabilities may obtain this form by contacting their DSS counselor or LD Specialist at (408) 864-8753.” Students who require assistance with complex images should contact DSS for assistance.

How can I contact the instructor?

You are welcome to meet with me on campus during office hours (no appointment necessary) or communicate with me by email or make an appointment to talk with me via Zoom. If you leave a voicemail or send an email with your telephone number, I will respond to your call. The quickest way to reach me and my preferred method of communication is by email, as I try to respond to your message the same day I receive it. Please see the first page of this syllabus for full contact information.

How will the instructor communicate with me?

This course is designed to help you gain confidence in communicating your ideas. As such, feedback on each of the major assessments (the midterm exercise, the analysis paper, and the final exam) will be provided in time for you to evaluate instructor comments and improve the next assignment. You will find this feedback in “Assignment Comments” located in the Grades section of our Canvas site. A grading rubric will usually accompany instructor feedback. Further, in addition to responding to email and meeting with students during office hours and by appointment, I will post substantive announcements about assignments and shape our weekly Discussions.

How can I make sure I am not dropped for non-attendance?

You must complete Quiz 1 and Quiz 2 by the due dates to avoid being dropped for non-attendance. This is because instructor are required to provide an accurate reporting of student participation to the college registrar on the census date.

Academic Integrity, Cheating, and Plagiarism

What is academic integrity?

“As a student at De Anza, you join a community of scholars who are committed to excellence in the teaching and learning process. We assume that all students will pursue their studies with integrity and honesty; however, all students should know that incidents of academic dishonesty are taken very seriously. When students are caught cheating or plagiarizing, a process is begun which may result in severe consequences. It is vitally important to your academic success that you know what constitutes academic dishonesty.

It is the student’s responsibility to know what constitutes academic dishonesty. Interpretations of academic dishonesty may differ among individuals and groups. However, it is expected that De Anza students will refrain from the behavior outlined. If you are unclear about a specific situation, you should speak to your instructor.

What is academic dishonesty?

The two most common kinds of academic dishonesty are cheating and plagiarism.

Cheating is the act of obtaining or attempting to obtain credit for academic work through the use of dishonest, deceptive or fraudulent means, such as copying, in part or in whole, from someone else’s work; submitting work presented previously in another course, if contrary to the rules of either course; altering or interfering with grading; using or consulting any unapproved sources or materials during an examination, including consulting with other students or using electronic equipment such as cell phones, unless authorized by the instructor; committing other acts that defraud or misrepresent.

Plagiarism is representing the work of someone else as your own. This may include incorporating the ideas, words, sentences, paragraphs or parts of another person’s writings without giving appropriate credit, and representing the product as one’s own; representing another’s artistic or scholarly works such as musical compositions, computer programs, photographs, paintings, drawings or sculptures as your own; submitting a paper purchased from a research or term paper service, including the internet; undocumented use of internet sources.

Other examples of academic dishonesty include purposely allowing another student to copy from your paper during a test; giving homework, term paper or other academic work to another student to plagiarize; having another person submit any work in your name; lying to an instructor or college official to improve your grade; altering graded work after it has been returned, then submitting the work for re-grading; stealing tests; forging signatures on drop/add cards or other college documents; collaboration without permission of instructor; gaining unlawful or unauthorized access to college or district computers or servers.”

May I use ChatGPT or another AI tool to help me with my writing for this class?

No. Use of ChatGPT or another AI tool constitutes plagiarism. You may not use ChatGPT or any other AI tool to complete discussions, the analysis paper, the midterm, or the final essay.

What are the consequences of Academic Dishonesty?

“Academic and/or administrative sanctions may be applied in cases of academic dishonesty.

Academic consequences may include: receiving a failing grade on the test, paper or exam; having course grade lowered; receiving a grade of F in the course.

Administrative consequences may include: disciplinary probation; disciplinary suspension; expulsion.

Students may also be subject to arrest or monetary fines if the academic dishonesty offense violates state or federal law.

Student Records

The Student Development & EOPS Office maintains a record of students who have engaged in academic dishonesty. This information is used to identify and discipline students reported for academic dishonesty more than once. Related policies and procedures are printed in the college catalog.”
